Mandamus Case Sustained.

Justice Culien this morning handed down a decision in the Supreme Court. Brooklyn, sustaining the demurrer in the case of Roswell W. Keene against the Boards of Supervisors of Kings and Queens Counties.

Keene, who is a lawyer of the Eastern District of Brooklyn, has been striving to induce Kings and Queens Counties to build a bridge over Newtown Creek at Maspeth avenue.

The Queens County Board of Supervisors appropriated $2,000 for the purpose on condition that the Supervisors of Kings County would do the same. The Kings County Supervisors failed to agree in the matter, and Keene began mandamus proceedings to compel both Boards to build the bridge, at which the Boards demurred.

Justice Culien said that the counties never assumed control of the old bridge that formerly spanned the creek and could not be held responsible.

The decision of Archtishop Satolli in the Bishop Wigger-Father Killeen controversy, concerning the Bishop's alleged arthrary closing up of the Church of St. Thomas at Bergen Pfolit, places Bishop Wigger in a position which seems to demand a very plain explanation from the Bishop, who gave out the foregoing version of the decision which is directly contradicted from authoritative sources.

The decision, as was reported in "The Evening World" yesterday, is entirely favorable to Father Killeen, who preferred the charges against Bishop Wigger; and it is conndently asserted by several Catholic clergymen that Bishop Wigger; alleged positive statement last Saturday, that Archbishop Satolli had decided in the Bishop's favor, is likely to serve as the basis for Iresh charges against him.
